"Motion capture is a revolutionary technology and brings life to real sports on the pitch, making the most complex moments and moves just as intuitive and exciting to play as any other aspect of the game." said Gianni Inzaghi, Managing Director of EA SPORTS. "We've been developing and testing using motion capture for a number of years and it's always fun to put it into game and see how it plays out and enhances the experience." For players, motion capture is now simpler and more accurate than ever before. A player can choose to view their game in three modes including: Standard Player Scenario Mode, which shows the player in motion as they move around the pitch and take on their opponents. Player Scenario Mode, which allows players to complete scripted, pre-determined goals during an exciting and high intensity mini-game, without any opponent interference or distractions. Free Flowing Player Scenario Mode, which allows players to control any number of player movements and sequences, and is an ideal training tool as it replicates the unpredictability and irregularity of real-life football. In FIFA 19, a new pitch technology 'Perlin 2.0' places the ball closer to the action on the pitch, improving free kicks and giving players a more realistic feeling of the ball. Also, the new 'ASTE' physics system accelerates the ball after a player has impacted it, to give players a more realistic and challenging playing experience. All of the game's 25 stadiums across 20 different countries from Europe to South America have been rebuilt and re-imagined, with the most updated and accurately modelled stadiums available today. EA SPORTS has worked with clubs and football associations across the globe to bring fans into their new stadiums and give them a unique authentic touch. For the first time in a FIFA game, on-pitch players can use their favourite clubs' emblems to score goals or make key saves during the game. On top of that, new 'Idol Moments' have been added which allow players to make a variety of outrageous celebrations. Fans can now decide whether they want to celebrate with a Goalkeeper or a Defender as they rise from a diving save or dive for a ball from the opponent during a goal celebration. The FIFA Ultimate Team mode offers players a wide range of gameplay options to customise their squads. Players can choose to play in

EA SPORTS FIFA is a series of video games developed by EA Canada exclusively for the Sony PlayStation video game console. The series is regarded as the best FIFA video game series ever created due to its expansive gameplay which brings the feel and look of the real game. The game was developed by EA Canada and was the first ever game to feature joint control through both analogue and digital sticks. The results are gameplay that feels entirely true to the feel of the real game. Gameplay EA SPORTS FIFA 22 utilises a new control scheme that allows players to play using either a digital stick, or a combination of both analogue and digital sticks. If all players on a team are using an analogue stick to move the ball, the ball will be moved accurately and players will be able to change their direction of movement using an analogue stick. By using both analogue and digital sticks, players will be able to create new opportunities or make their players more effective at taking advantage of them. New Player Movements In FIFA, players need to be smart to unlock their full potential. This means knowing what to do when a player in your team has the ball, or when playing off a teammate. Playing the ball under pressure can be the difference between a goal and a chance to shoot. In FIFA 22, players will have to think how they're going to move the ball and find the best way to get it to their teammates. You'll be able to decide how a player will move and whether that will be a short or long pass. You'll also be able to decide when to hold back the player and wait for the right moment to pass the ball or to hold the ball back until you need to be in the right position to take advantage of the opportunities presented to you. Goals Your ability to score can depend heavily on what type of goal you need to reach. You can score from a simple tap, a strike or a volley. If you miss, either you can reset and try again, or you can hit a penalty which allows you to take the game to penalties. Some shots require you to approach the ball differently and you can alter your runs using a new cross-up move. It's a high quality shot that takes advantage of moving and positioning players to create space for the goalkeeper. You'll also be able to shoot in front of the goalkeeper when the ball is passed to you and can be
